

LAY SHORE BLAZE TO STILL BLAST

Moonshine Apparatus Found in Debris After Fire on Baltic Avenue

CAMEL IS "KIDNAPPED"

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger
Atlantic City, July 18.—The explosion of a moonshine still was responsible for the fire here last night which destroyed a frame office building in the rear yard of J. L. Bair & Son, on Baltic avenue; threatened to destroy a big warehouse and did considerable damage to the new Brunswick Hotel.

This was the conclusion of the firemen who investigated the blaze and found a big copper still and other apparatus for the manufacture of illicit liquor in the wreckage of the burned building.

While Federal prohibition agents were busy cleaning up the wet spots about the city yesterday two visitors decidedly the worse for moonshine staggered into the side door of a cafe at Georgia and Atlantic avenues and gave the cash customer a thrill. The first man in was leading a donkey while the second was doing everything in his power to induce the camel to enter the establishment. The camel was disinclined, and while the struggle was going on two men arrived from a Boardwalk amusement park, accompanied by policemen, and took the animals in charge. The attendants declared the two celebrants were visitors at the park and wandered off with the animals while the attendants were temporarily absent.

With the arrest yesterday of Marcelina Gove, twenty-seven years old, shore police believe they have rounded up the woman responsible for a score of hold-ups here in the last two weeks. She was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Nelson Ditchie, 1704 Park lane, who charges that the girl pounced upon him shortly after midnight yesterday and, after beating him severely and inflicting several bad bites on his arm, robbed him of $25. She is charged with highway robbery, assault and battery and mayhem. She will be arraigned for a hearing before Magistrate Joseph Paxson Friday.

Forcing his way into her apartment early yesterday a bandit held a pistol at the head of Mrs. James Heron, wife of a printer, and stripped several rings from her fingers with his free hand. Shortly before her husband was due to return from his work Mrs. Heron was awakened in her bedroom at the Cologne Apartments by a strange footstep. When she called out the intruder placed the pistol against her head and threatened to shoot if she made an outcry. After taking the rings he ransacked a bureau, but got little of value.

Detectives left here for Philadelphia yesterday with extradition papers for the return of Jacob Wolfson, who was arrested there Monday on charges of check raising preferred by Jacob Rosenberg, an Atlantic avenue shoe merchant.

Declaring that the liberal violation of the Volstead act by thinking people is leading to disrespect for all laws, Miss Mary Crossman, a Cleveland attorney, urged here yesterday that the "dry" law be amended to meet with popular approval.

Miss Crossman is attending the sessions of the Commercial Law League of America at the Ambassador Hotel. Asked what she thought of prohibition, Miss Crossman said: "I am not in favor of any law that cannot be enforced. The prohibition law is openly and flagrantly violated. When the thinking people do not abide by it, how can any one else be expected to? When a law is a law it should be respected or else every other law will be held lightly and the country will be in a sad condition in a very short time. The only solution I can see to the problem is to amend the law to suit popular taste." The morning was devoted to a golf tourney over the links of the Linwood Club, and many reports were read by committee chairmen this afternoon. The annual dance was held in the Ambassador Hotel in the evening.

Police authorities of Philadelphia and New York, as well as detectives in this city and Ventnor, are hunting for a string of pearls which disappeared from the neck of Miss Elmore Gilliland, of New York, who is at 5311 Atlantic avenue, while she was returning to this city after a brief trip to New York.

Miss Gilliland said she had the pearls when she boarded the train at New York and is equally certain she wore them when she arrived in this city. After leaving the train she went directly to her home, and there found the string was gone.

Pronounced Klee-Ko

GINGER ALE

*But they all like
Ginger Ale*

Fortunate it is that tastes differ, for this "variety is the spice of life." Luckily for the hostess, there are "likes" common to all. She can offer ginger ale to all her guests—men, women, or children. They all like it.

The taste of Clicquot has a universal appeal, and we guard the blend with rigorous care. Each bottle tastes like the next. Distance and the seasons do not affect the delightful taste of Clicquot.

Neither does Clicquot vary in quality. Purity is always pure. From the depths of springs the crystal-clear water is drawn. Real Jamaica ginger, refined sugar and fruit juices carbonated exactly right, give Clicquot the taste that individualizes Clicquot among ginger ales.

Buy it by the case for the home. You can get, in addition to Ginger Ale, Clicquot Club Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer and Root Beer.

The Netherall
For Slight Figures a Single Garment Instead of Three

One garment to wear, one garment to put on—one garment that is support and covering at the same time; a garment that eliminates the corset, dispenses with all clumsy bands and buttons, preserves the silhouette unbroken by a single ridge, and is as cool and pleasing to the touch as only such a fine knitted fabric can be.

In other words, this is the most highly specialized combination garment known—convenient, comfortable, cool.
